Coverbs and Complex Predicates in Wagiman. Stephen Wilson. Wagiman is an Australian Aboriginal language spoken in the Top End of the Northern Territory. It possesses an unusual open class of words which the author calls "coverbs". Most frequently, coverbs are paired with an inflecting verb from a closed class to form a complex predicate: the coverb and inflecting verb jointly determine the verbal semantics and argument structure of the clause.

Coverbs and Complex Predicates in Wagiman

Wagiman is an Australian Aboriginal language spoken in the northern part of the Northern Territory by about ten people. It possesses an unusual open class of words, which are called coverbs. Most frequently coverbs are paired with an inflecting verb from a closed class to form a complex predicate. This book provides a descriptive and analytical account of the behavior of coverbs in Wagiman, especially their role in complex predicate formation.

Coverbs may function as the sole predicate only in non-finite dependent clauses. In finite clauses, they only occur as part of a complex verb, together with a generic verb. An interesting consequence of this 'division of labour' between coverbs and generic verbs is that the verbs categorise events.

complex predicates and show that SVCs have similar characteristics as complex predicates. In section 3 and 4 we provide a series of syntactic and semantic tests on two types of SVCs in Dagaare and Akan, arguing that the various verbs do indeed behave as a unit, as a complex predicate. In section 5, we then attempt to represent
